Joe Chambers Says That
Steam Roller Had No
Shock Absorbers

MAC'NE WELL OILED

While Reading Resolution, Convention Voted an Adjournment

Joe Chambers of Tulsa has learned it is no easy matter to induce an enthusiastic crowd of young democrats to cast reflections on or call for explanations from their governor. He discovered this indisputable fact at Okmulgee Wednesday when he made an attempt to have his resolution read and adopted by the League of Young Democrats.

At his office in the Exchange Trust company Thursday Chambers admitted that the steam roller used on his resolution was a 12-cylinder, doublewidth affair without shock absorbers, and that it was handled by experts.

Majority Was With Him.
"I can't help what happened," he declared. My resolution expressed my sentiments, and I know it contained the expression of a majority of the delegates. A number of them, knowing the contents of my resolution before it was presented, came to me individually and assured me they were for it. But each one added that it would not be wise for the assembly to adopt it.

"If Governor Robertson is or has been crooked, I want to know it—and I want everybody else to know it. My resolution did not accuse him of any crime—it merely called on him for an explanation. If he can give one, of the transactions in question in which he is charged with serious offenses. It also asked the newspapers of the state to give as much publicity to the governor's explanation as they have to the charges against him. That seems to me to be fair."

Was Fair to Governor.

The resolution, which is brief, follows:
"Whereas, Certain charges have been made against the governor of this state and other high officials appointed by him, which charges relate to certain bank failures in the state and to certain financial transactions between the governor and one of his appointees, which charges, if true, as we democrats and the true exponent of honesty in office would not tolerate;
"Whereas, These charges have been given such wide publicity and have become the main topic of conversation in this state to such an extent that we believe it is a duty the governor owes his people, his party and himself to publicly make a full explanation, if any he has, with such transactions;
"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the League of Young Democrats of the state of Oklahoma that we call on the governor to make a full explanation of the matters charged, without delay, and we request the newspapers of the state to give as much publicity to such explanation as has been given to the charges made."

No Names Mentioned.

Instead of Chambers' resolution, one was adopted in which no names were inserted and no offices mentioned.
"President L. B. Myers was asked by several members to place me on the resolutions committee," Chambers explained in telling of his part in the convention. "I announced I would serve on that committee, but that I reserved the privilege of presenting a minority resolution. This did not seem satisfactory to some of the fellows and they asked Myers not to appoint me."
"Then they thought it over and someone suggested to the president that I might prove more dangerous on the floor than I would as a member of the committee. So, after announcing the other members, Myers added my name."

Chambers declared that George Hill of McAlester, chairman of the resolutions committee, was in favor of his resolution, and that those who thought likewise were beaten by one vote, the majority favoring the resolution that was adopted.
"But before a vote could be taken," Chambers advised, "Ed Butterfield, who works in the state-house, made a motion to adjourn. I was so busy trying to make myself heard that I didn't know the vote was taken. I do know I was left standing and that my resolution wasn't adopted."

It was stated by other members of the Tulsa delegation that the "aye" vote was taken, whereupon the meeting was ordered adjourned without hearing the "nay" vote.

W. E. Brown Resigns Presidency of Republic National of St. Louis

The resignation of W. E. Brown, as president of the Republic National bank of St. Louis, has been accepted by the board of directors, and J. A. Lewis, vice president of the Irving National bank of New York city and formerly for 25 years vice president and cashier of the Bank of Commerce of St. Louis is the new president. Brown retains his interest in the Republic bank as a stockholder.

While in Tulsa Thursday Mr. Brown stated that he had never seen the sky so blue or known the air to be so pure as in Tulsa yesterday. He was not prepared to say whether he will return here to live. He believes that the construction of the proposed $2,000,000 hotel and bringing of Ruskay new water here has absolutely solved the problem of Tulsa's future.

2 FIRMS FACING BANKRUPT CASES

Ruskay and Kardos-Burke
Companies of Gotham
Objects of Suits

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were filed today against two large brokerage firms whose combined liabilities aggregate $4,000,000 and their assets only $1,600,000.
Ruskay & Co., of 42 Broadway, which has branches in Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Boston, were declared bankrupt by the United States district court following an involuntary application made by Zalkin & Cohen, attorneys for the petitioners. Their liabilities were stated to be $2,600,000 and their assets $1,600,000.

The second failure was that of Kardos & Burke of 32 Broadway, whose liabilities were stated to be $1,500,000 and their assets but $150,000. An involuntary petition was filed against them today following admission of insolvency and appointment as receiver of Robert F. Stephenson under a bond of $25,000 by Judge Hand in federal court.
John Burke, partner of the second firm, was formerly a governor of North Dakota and later United States treasurer. He is said to have lost every dollar of his fortune.

Louis M. Kardos came to this country a Hungarian immigrant and went to work as a messenger for a Wall Street firm. His rise was rapid and spectacular.

ORDERS TWO PLACES CLOSED

Injunctions Issued Against Drug Store and Feed Yard.

Two injunctions were issued against alleged "boose joints" were issued Thursday by District Judge Valjean Biddison. The Detroit Drug store, 222 East Second and the Farmers Wagon yard, 3 South Lansing, were the places ordered closed. The drug store is owned by E. L. (Cowboy) Long and C. F. Brown is named owner of the wagon yard. The injunctions were issued on application of the Tulsa police officers, both members of the "liquor squad." The request for a lockup order against the drug store is backed by two raids, one made in September and the other in December of last year. A pint of "jake" and a half pint of whiskey were seized, the officers swore. The wagon yard was raided February 19, according to the petition, and a quart of whiskey seized.

LEGION LADIES GIVE CANTEN

Sale of Doughnuts and Coffee to Aid Fund for Coming "Big Time."

Special to The World. The ladies' auxiliary of the American legion gave a canteen last night at the high school auditorium, which was well attended. This was the first entertainment the auxiliary has given since its organization and the proceeds from the sale of doughnuts and coffee will go toward arranging for a "big time" in the near future.
The auxiliary now has a membership of over 40, with the prospect of several more coming at the next meeting, the first Monday night in March.

Man of Many Aliases.

Special to The World. Sheriff Dwyer went to Dighton, Kan., and brought back with him David M. Drew, alias George Carson, alias Carlos Morgan, charged with forging a deed to a farm near Waukomis. On this he borrowed from a local real estate dealer $1,600. A search has been in progress for the past six weeks. Drew with all his aliases has only one leg and has attained the age of 60 years.

the Trophies

Alva J. Niles was back at his desk in the Security National bank, of which he is president, Thursday afternoon. He was not prepared to say whether he will return here to live. He believes that the construction of the proposed $2,000,000 hotel and bringing of Ruskay new water here has absolutely solved the problem of Tulsa's future.

CHANGE IN THE STATE LAW

In Making State Income Tax Returns Deduct Income Tax Paid.

All state and federal income taxes paid within the year 1921 are deductible in the 1922 state income tax return, according to a ruling from F. C. Carter, state auditor, just obtained by the Tulsa National bank. Many Oklahoma taxpayers do not know of this deduction, as it is an amendment of the state income tax law made by the last legislature and is contained in the 1922 state income tax blanks, which were printed according to the old law.

DISMISS USURY SUIT

Case Against Union National, P. E. Magee and W. E. Brown Stricken for Lack of Prosecution.

Two suits brought against the Union National bank, P. E. Magee and W. E. Brown, by the Mid-West Royalties company, in which $143,350.50 for alleged usury practices were asked in each case, were ordered dismissed by District Judge Valjean Biddison, Thursday for lack of prosecution. The order of dismissal came after Judge Biddison had overruled a motion of the plaintiffs for a continuance, on the ground that the chief witness was in Europe. Counsel for the plaintiffs had failed to give notice of intention to appeal.

HAD BEEN ACTING STRANGELY

Body of Coffeyville Suicide Found Under Nowata County Bridge.

Special to The World. C. W. Smith of Coffeyville, who disappeared from his home in that city last Thursday, was found Monday morning carried on a bridge in the north part of this county with a bullet hole in his head and a .32 caliber revolver by his side.

Smith is reported to have been acting strange for some time and it is supposed that he shot himself during a spell of temporary insanity. He was about 35 years old and survived by his wife, who lives in Coffeyville.

General O'Neil Proposes to Establish Here Machine Gun Company

General O'Neil, who as a "regular" in the Spanish-American and world wars was ever fond of "starting something," is in Tulsa with a similar, though more friendly, intent in his capacity as inspector general of the Oklahoma national guard.

General O'Neil purposes to organize here a machine gun company made up entirely of ex-service men and in particular of ex-runners and artillerymen. Such a company, he said Thursday, would be unique in the nation and would attract wide attention to Tulsa. With solidly directed, he took the first step by wiring a recommendation that Albert E. Galloway, vice commander of Joe Carson post of the American Legion and an artillery officer who saw active service in France, be commissioned captain of the company immediately.

ORGANIZING NEW TULSA COMPANY

General O'Neil Proposes to Establish Here Machine Gun Company

General O'Neil, who as a "regular" in the Spanish-American and world wars was ever fond of "starting something," is in Tulsa with a similar, though more friendly, intent in his capacity as inspector general of the Oklahoma national guard.

Galloway, vice commander of Joe Carson post of the American Legion and an artillery officer who saw active service in France, be commissioned captain of the company immediately.

Commissioned and noncommissioned officers, upon their appointment, will enter upon recruiting duty with a total personnel of 75 as their goal. Machine gun company M will be made up of the Third Battalion, 180th Infantry, 45th division, other companies of which stationed in this city are the service, rifle and medical detachments.

In stating the prices of machine gun work Thursday, General O'Neil said: "The machine gun is the greatest little pacifier there is. We depended on it in France; we depend upon it in America in time of trouble. No man is more patriotic than the one who in time of peace is willing to give some of his time to preparing to defend his country in time of war or of great distress. In return the man gains the advantages of athletics, social life, healthful exercise and camping. His time is an hour and a half a week and a two weeks' instruction course in the summer."
